OLIVE Tablets
OIL the Bowels

A physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards' for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets of the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they come up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

INCENDIARIES FIRE TWO BATTING MILLS FEW MINUTES APART

Half Million in Property Endangered
By Blazes at Rock River Cotton and Janesville Batten Mills

Last Night.

Half a million dollars worth of property was endangered by fire last night through blazes of undoubted incendiary origin started almost simultaneously in the storage rooms of the Janesville Batten Mills and the Rock River Cotton Company. Through their timely discovery and the prompt response of the fire department the progress of the flames was arrested.

The damage at the Janesville Mills is estimated at about $500,000, and that at the Rock River Mills is confined to the baled cotton destroyed. Discovery of the fire in the Janesville Batten Mills was made by the engineer at the electric light and power plant at about ten o'clock. A smell of smoke for several minutes before learning its source, believing that it was caused by a hot-box in the machinery. As soon as he made his mind that the smoke came from outside the building he quickly found the location of the fire. The fire was a dense smoke that hung over the mill across the race-way and turned in an alarm from box 31, the electric company's private alarm.

Not three minutes elapsed before the firemen and apparatus from the west side fire station arrived and soon three streams were being played on the flames, which were confined to the frame storage house lying between the factory proper and the railway embankment. Two leads of hose were run from the plug at the corner of Race and Franklin streets, and two from the plug at the corner of Race and River streets. The fourth line was kept in reserve.

So hot was the fire in the storage house that the flames pierced through the sheet metal roof and shot up for a distance of about fifty feet. The fire was quickly communicated to the building. Fifteen minutes of well directed work sufficed to bring it under control.

No sooner was the blaze at the Janesville Mills quenched when word was received that there was another fire in the basement of the Rock River Cotton Company's factory and all apparatus was rushed to that place. There too, the fire was in the storage room. Five or six nozzles of the automatic sprinkler system were throwing water on the burning bales and helped keep the fire in check. The firemen pulled the blazing cotton out of the building and extinguished the fire by the use of chemicals.

Evidence of incendiarism is conclusive, according to Fire Chief Henry Klein, who made prompt investigations. The Janesville Mills have no watchman and the storage shed is never entered except when a bale of cotton is wanted. The Rock River Mills have a watchman but he does not make a practice of visiting the storage rooms on his regular rounds. At each place the outer door is secured with a padlock and entrance had been made by forcing off the staple and using a lever of some kind. Both fires had been started in the rear end of the room where they could burn unnoticed for a longer time than would be possible otherwise, all of which goes to show that the incendiary or incendiaries were familiar with the premises.

The method of starting the fire was crude and was such as to endanger the life of the incendiary for cotton lint sometimes flashes up like so much gun powder. Nevertheless, it may have been the work of a professional, and possibly by the same man who started the fire on the Milwaukee street bridge just two weeks earlier. Considerable business was required to break into the Janesville Mills, the door forced in plain view from North River street and within 100 feet of the av light that hangs just south of the viaduct.

State Fire Marshal Purcell has been notified and a prompt investigation is anticipated.

Better take out a fire insurance policy at once and be protected. We represent only sound, conservative companies. J. H. Burns & Son, Room 2, Central Bldg.

MISS ELSIE FATHERS MAKES RESIGNATION

Will Cease From Duties of Assistant
City Treasurer Beginning
Thursday, May 1.

Miss Elsie Fathers, assistant city treasurer, yesterday tendered her resignation to the city council, to take effect on or before Thursday, May 1. The resignation was accepted. Miss Fathers has served in this capacity for a long time, and until the appointment of George W. Muenchow as city treasurer, just before the first of the year, assumed a large part of the duties of that office. Her services were also required and invaluable during the recent period of tax collection.

Councilman C. K. Millmore was again elected to the position of superintendent of streets, and James Gillespie re-appointed to the position of janitor at the city hall. John Dalton was appointed special police officer, his appointment to expire July 8. The bonds and oaths of the school commissioners-at-large, the school commissioners from the first, third, and fifth wards, and the oaths of the supervisors were approved and accepted.

The superintendent of streets was directed to extend the curb and guttering between Washington street and lying between Highland and Linden avenues (extended), and to repair with gravel Harrison street between Court street and Milwaukee avenue.

The council accepted the bond and proposals of G. D. Cannon to construct cement curb and gutter around River-view park at a cost of 44 cents per foot. The city clerk was directed to advertise for bids for the construction of sidewalk to be laid by the city during 1912.

Permission was granted the Y. M. C. A. building committee on its petition to extend that part of their basement proposed to be used as a bowling-alley in their building into the public alley in the rear. A drawing of the proposed extension was submitted.

The amended automobile regulation ordinance was given its third reading and passage.

The city treasurer was directed to transfer from various funds to the general fund various amounts representing: crossing stone, paving brick, cement, crossing plates and gutter covers used in the various wards in 1912 as shown by the report of the superintendent of the stone crusher and the superintendent of streets.

Adjournment of the council was taken until Thursday, April 17.

ALBERTA CAMPAIGN COMES TO A CLOSE

Issues Involved in Fight of Almost Exclusively Provincial Nature
—Conservatives Hopeful.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edmonton, Alta., April 16.—The people of Alberta will vote tomorrow as to whether the Sifton administration shall be continued in power or be replaced by the Conservative party under the leadership of Edward McHugh and the leaders, the candidates and the papers are making their last appeals to the electorate.

The contest which was actively begun less than four weeks ago, has been carried with an energy and enthusiasm commensurate with the importance of the issues involved. It is a desperate struggle for the control of the province. Practically the only issues involved in the fight are of a provincial character. Nevertheless, the results are expected to have an important bearing on Federal politics. The overthrow of the Liberal government in what has always been regarded as a Liberal stronghold would be hailed with delight by the Conservatives of the entire Dominion, who would regard it as a good omen with reference to the general elections which may take place at no very distant date.

In their campaign, the members of the Government party are relying on the record of the past three years. In his campaign addresses Premier Sifton has emphasized the efforts of his administration to break the railway monopoly, to establish a co-operative system of elevators and to bring about other changes in present conditions with a view to advancing the interests of the people and not the corporations. He has promised that a renewal of the Liberal administration will insure a continuation of the progress and prosperity of the province. A progressive programme with especial reference to the needs of the farmers is promised.

For the Opposition, the claim is made that the Sifton administration has accomplished little or nothing in the way of road and bridge construction, telephone extensions and other measures for the material advance of the province, that money has been wasted and that the province has become overburdened with debt. The Conservative speakers have been particularly bitter in their criticisms of the attitude of the Sifton Government in the settlement of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway question.

One of the interesting side issues of the contest has to do with the question of woman suffrage. A number of the Liberal candidates have committed themselves to the equal suffrage cause and as a result there is a possibility that Alberta will lead all the other provinces in the Confederation in giving equal political rights to women.

$12 VALUE FOR $2.35.

A Cyclopaedia for Readers of The Daily Gazette.

Last year, within a short space of time, more than two million dictionaries were distributed to readers of a syndicate of leading newspapers at 98 cents each. This was considered one of the greatest book bargains ever offered, but here is even a greater surprise. In accordance with the announcement on another page of today's paper, there may be obtained exclusively through The Gazette Everybody's Cyclopaedia, at the remarkably low price of $2.35. The Cyclopaedia is complete in five beautiful volumes, bound in English cloth. The regular selling price is $22 per set, but readers of The Gazette can have this wonderful set of books for $2.35 provided they cut out the coupon printed elsewhere.

This is a most desirable set of books. The price of the large cyclopaedia sets is usually so high, from $50 to $100, that many people, while anxious to own one, feel they cannot afford it. The publishers of Everybody's Cyclopaedia, from a revision of various large and good cyclopaedias, have compiled a cyclopaedia containing all that is necessary, and have merely eliminated or condensed that which would be of interest to a specialist or technical student.

The sets are too bulky to be sent by mail, but out-of-town readers can have them for $2.35 the set, to be sent by express, shipping charges to be paid by the receiver. Lose no time in clipping your coupon and presenting it next Friday or Saturday. And remember, you can obtain the Cyclopaedia only through the Gazette.

My Chiropactoric Adjustments are the greatest boon in the world to sick people. Chiropactoric goes right at the CAUSE of your trouble and removes Nature then makes you well. Chiropactoric adjustments get results and are not severe as this letter will testify.

I feel a word is due the sick and suffering people of this country. This testimonial may be used in your advertisements so the people will know of the wonderful work you are doing. Before making the adjustments from J. N. Imlay I had been told by people and heard from different sources that Chiropactoric adjustments were too severe. Sorry to say I was kept from enjoying my good health sooner for that reason. If anyone is staying away from the Chiropactoric office for that reason you have been misinformed.

After receiving the adjustments from J. N. Imlay I experienced no bad after effects, such as lame or sore back, neither did I experience much discomfort at the time he gave me the adjustments. The world of good I received at the hands of the Chiropactoric I feel could never be duplicated by any other system or science.

For your previous to the adjustments I was subject to lame back, now it never troubles me, even in doing my heaviest household work. My eyes were in a very weak condition along with stomach and kidney trouble. Now I am able to read and sew the eyes giving me no discomfort. The other diseases have also left me.

The least I can say for J. N. Imlay, the Chiropactoric is that I appreciate the lot of good he has done me and may he always be able to secure such results for the people he comes in contact with.

Gratefully yours,

Jim McGuire, veteran ball player now scouting for a living, says that the feat of Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics in getting five hits out of five times up, in the first game of the season with the Boston Red Sox is without parallel in an opener. Jim ought to know, for he has been in baseball for nearly thirty years.

Umpire Brannan of the National League is a canny man. He has invented a guard for the umpire's feet. It is a device of wire almost as thick as that used in a catcher's mask, and fits over the toe of the shoe.

Artie Armstrong, Chicago, bantam-weight pugilist, is waxing ambitious. He has posted an offer of $200 side wager for a bout with Champion Johnny Coulton. Now he is meditating talking to Jimmy Walker as to stepping stone to a match with Kid Williams, the Baltimore terror.

The best collection of polo players ever assembled is expected to gather in Chicago this summer for the national Olympic games. Permission now is being sought of Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, to allow the attendance of the famous army polo team. Invitations have been extended to the Meadowbrook team of New York and to the Villanova and Mryn-Mawr teams of Philadelphia as well as to teams from Virginia.

Baseball is known for its fearful and wonderful nicknames. The latest one has been tacked to Johnny Evers, manager of the Chicago Cubs. They are calling him the "K. K." not for Ku Klux, as might be suggested by some of his characteristics, but for Key-stone King, which President Charles Murphy says he is.

The biggest baseball demonstration of the decade is what many say will happen in Chicago on Frank Chance Day, Saturday May 17. Frank Chance, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, on that day will make his first appearance in Chicago as manager of the New York Yankees. An automobile parade, stunts at the ball park, and a banquet in the evening attended by the city's notables will welcome the man, who, for years, was Chicago's greatest athletic hero.

Hub Pernell, star southpaw of the Oakland Pacific Coast Leaguers, was having hard sledding of it the other day. Every batter of the opposition who came to bat sent the ball on a line to the woods. The rapid succession of smacks made a sound like a young Mexican revolution.

The manager of the Oaks sought Pernell, and, whispered querulously, "What's the matter, pal; can't you get 'em over?" Pernell replied with a faint grin: "Why, those fellows crack the ball before it gets halfway to the plate. I've the control all right, though. I can hit their bats every crack out of the box." And Pernell appeared surprised when the manager yanked him.

INTERNATIONAL RACE FOR PENNANT BEGUN

Games Scheduled in Baltimore, Newark, Jersey City and Providence—Twenty-second Season.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Providence, R. I., April 16.—The race for the championship pennant of the International League (formerly the Eastern League) began today with games scheduled in Baltimore, Newark, Jersey City and Providence. The champion Toronto team was programmed as the opponent of Harry Smith's players at Newark, while Jersey City had the Buffalo team as its guests. Rochester opened at Baltimore and Montreal at Providence.

This is the twenty-second season of the International League, which was organized as the Eastern League in 1892 and continued under the old name until last season. Twenty-one cities have held franchises since the organization, as follows: Elmira, Utica and Yonkers, one season; Albany, Binghamton, Erie and Troy, two seasons; Hartford, three seasons; Scranton and Worcester, four seasons; Wilkes-Barre, six; Baltimore eleven; Syracuse and Springfield, eight; Newark and Jersey City, twelve; Montreal, sixteen; Toronto, nineteen; Rochester and Buffalo, twenty; Providence, twenty-two—the latter being the only club that has been continuously a member of the organization.

BASEBALL CHATTER.

Manager Evers, of the Cubs, has shipped Pitcher Sutcliffe to the New London team of the Eastern Association.

Manager Callahan, of the White Sox, figures that Pitcher Benz is fifty per cent stronger than he was last year. The Cincinnati Club lost quite a bunch of money by being compelled to cancel exhibition games on account of the flooded condition of the ball yard.

The St. Joseph team hung one on "Big Ed" Walsh in an exhibition game the other day, when they drove the "Big Moose" to the woods in six innings.

The Athletics' pitching staff looks to be some staff with the youngsters, Wyckoff, Durning and Bush helping out Bender, Coombs, Plank and Brown.

Pitcher George Foster, who is showing his winning ways with the Champion Red Sox, was once with the Browns and last season star heater of the Houston "Tex" team.

Wilbur Schak, the former Brooklyn twirler, is being a member of the Indianapolis team. Two years ago he was a star with the Milwaukee team.

A number of baseball critics claim the outfield of both the Giants and the Athletics are woefully weak. The season is early yet. A little later we will see what we will see.

Minneapolis Millers look like an "Old Home Week" ball team.

Perfumed Notes and other Lady Eggs will be glad to learn that Speaker, Wood, Carigan, Gardner, Nunnemaker, O'Brien and Thomas, of the Red Sox Champions, are all eligible bachelors who gather such a job of money every two weeks that it couldn't be planted in two dozen pairs of silk, or hile, or just plain silk ones.

Harry Lewis, the American welter, who has been living in England for some time, is planning to go to Australia.

Bob McAllister, ex-amateur champion of California, and Paddy Slaving will clash in San Francisco April 26.

Promoter Al Lippe says that the match between Al Palzer and Jack Johnson is still on and that the bout will take place in Paris next June.

PLAYS GREAT GAME AT FIRST FOR REDS

Dick Hoblitzel, as the fans call him, "Hobby," is expected to have one of his big seasons with the Cincinnati Reds this year. He looked like one of the best first-batters in the National League last season, with a batting average of .294 in 148 games and a fielding percentage of .985. He seems in even better shape than ever this spring, and is counted on to be the end man in a series of double plays. Flinker-to-Ever-to-Hoblitzel, which will make the old Chicago Cub combination of Flinker-to-Ever-to-Chance look funded.

Connie Mack doesn't think that Washington will cut much of a caper in the American League pennant race. Blither the Red Sox of the Athletics will attend to the winning stuff this season, according to Connie. Pitchers "Lefty" James and "Lefty" George are team mates on the Toledo Club of the American Association. These two southpaws will be a great help to the Mud Hens in their "wade through the A. A. circuit." With a bunch of big league veterans including Dave Altizer, Jim Delehanty, Jim Williams, Hobe Ferris, George Browne, Claude Rossman, Roy Patterson and Rube Waddell, the

COBB'S SUSPENSION DISCIPLINE MATTER

President Navim of Detroit Club Issues Statement in Regard to Standing of Star Outfielder.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Detroit, April 16.—Discipline is the all important question at issue in the dispute between the Detroit's American Baseball club and the all-star player, outfielder Ty Cobb, who is now under suspension because he refused to accept the 1913 contract tendered him by President Navim. This declaration was made by Mr. Navim today in a signed statement. It is understood that $2500 is the amount involved in the monetary dispute. The statement follows:

"The issue between Mr. Cobb and the Detroit baseball club is not over a matter of money. There are fundamental principles involved, principal among which is that of discipline, recognized in all walks of life.

"It is conceded by everybody that Mr. Cobb is the best ball player in the world, and Mr. Cobb is also the best paid ball player in the world, but this is not the issue. Mr. Cobb did not make baseball, baseball made him. A player cannot be bigger than the game which created him. To give in to Mr. Cobb now in his present attitude would be to concede that he is greater than the game itself. For he has set all laws at defiance.

"Mr. Cobb instead of reporting for spring practice and giving the club the benefit of his knowledge and his play organized an independent team and went south starting himself with daily ultimatums to the Detroit club. If Mr. Cobb can persistently deny the laws of the game, what effect will he have on the other players and where will his 'I am above the law' really end? We may as well turn the club over to him and eventually the league.

"If Mr. Cobb does not like the room a hotel clerk gives him he quits the club for weeks. If he does not like what a silly man in the grandstand yells at him he punches his face and is again out of the game. He quits the game when he is fighting for a pennant and publicly stated that he would not play with his comrade in the left field, D. Jones on account of a misunderstanding with that player.

"If he does not feel like practicing he stays away from the park. He cannot see that he is subject to discipline. I think Mr. Cobb will eventually recognize his fault. Until he does, there can be no understanding between us. He demands $15,000 for his services and then goes to the other end of the country to fire ultimatums at me through the public press proclaiming that no representative of the Detroit club has been sent to talk business with him. Mr. Cobb is an employee of the Detroit baseball club. He knows where the office is. In the past I have patiently put up with a great deal with Mr. Cobb, but affairs now have reached a point where there must be a show down."

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

GOOD COOKING A HIGH ART.

It takes brains to be a good cook, while any one could be an average lawyer, doctor, dentist or druggist. In some cities there are splendid buildings for the domestic sciences. They take a high rank, prejudices are set aside, and there are even waiting lists of the domestic science students. Meyer Bloomfield, Director of Vocational Bureau of Boston.

The usual concept of an artist is one who mixes different colored paints and makes weird marks on a canvas.

A slightly broader view includes a certain high class of stonecutters, also people with fearful and wonderful makeups who decimate behind the footlights and imitate real life.

All this is too narrow. Art is the combination or modification of things to a certain end. In its broadest sense it is applicable to any product of the hand of man.

In common usage, however, we apply it only to the more finished products, to the things done in the most workmanlike way.

If we say a thing is artistic we mean that it is beautiful and that it has been done in a skillful manner.

The word may be used concerning the humblest tasks if done with taste and diligence. There are artistic housekeepers, artistic cooks.

Who has not sat himself down to a meal that was a dream—everything pleasing to the eye and to the palate, each dish properly cooked by new ways of cooking that were a delight?

Even potatoes can be cooked in an artistic way.

I think I have heard the same thing of prunes—but we must draw the line somewhere.

How better can men be served than by good cookery?

He who is properly fed can do better work, have a happier disposition, be more at peace with his fellow men and thus be higher morally, mentally and spiritually than he who is ill fed.

Napoleon said that an army moves on its stomach, but eating is not confined to the military. Not only an army, but all civilization moves on its stomach.

If the truth were known the cooks of the world have had a more uplifting and civilizing influence than those receiving more extended notices in history.

That man was wise who fed and clothed the people before teaching them higher truths. It is hard to reform a hungry man.

Good cooks create good will.

By all means let us have vocational schools teaching domestic science. If all cooking were good the millennium would be advanced several centuries.

The artistic cook is in very truth a friend of man.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TO GET A MONTH OFF

BOARD VOTES S. G. DUNWIDDIE AN ASSISTANT TO ALLOW HIM A VACATION.

STANDING COMMITTEES

Are Announced at the Session of the Board This Morning—Little Other Business Transacted.

At the session of the board this morning it was voted on the motion of Supervisor W. W. Swingle that an assistant be allowed the district attorney for the period of one month and that the money be appropriated for the payment of the same.

Swingle said that under the circumstances he believed it was right to make this provision for a vacation for the district attorney.

"I notice that a number of my Janesville brethren are wearing booster buttons this morning," said Supervisor Simon Smith of Beloit, "and I want to say that I don't know of any better way of boosting one's town than by encouraging just the thing that our district attorney is contemplating."

A resolution carried without opposition.

On the motion of Supervisor E. C. Hopkins, the highway committee was ordered to purchase a two cylinder gasoline road roller and $2,750 was appropriated for the same. The vote on the resolution stood 29 for to 9 against.

This action was taken following an address to the board by Highway Commissioner C. W. Moore who urged the necessity of this additional roller in order to build the county highways as examples of the benefits from using a road roller and others where rollers had not been used as showing poor results in road building.

Although the county now has three rollers this has proven entirely inadequate to the demand and there are some towns where a roller has never been used owing to the fact that the equipment was not sufficient.

The question brought up some discussion on the part of the township supervisors, both for and against. Supervisor John Sherman of Fulton insisted that a roller was unnecessary in building highways and that just as good a road could be built without a roller as with one. What good was there in rolling dry gravel, he asked. Supervisor K. K. Newhouse of Clinton township urged in favor of the road roller and called to the attention of the board conditions of various roads in his locality where the roller had been and had not been used.

The consideration of a few bills and other matters of minor importance constituted the business before the board this afternoon. An early adjournment was taken and it was anticipated that the work of the session would be disposed of at an early hour tomorrow. The county superintendent's report and several committee reports will be heard at that time.

Standing committee of the county board for 1913 was appointed by Chairman A. C. Gray as follows:

No. 1—Tax certificates and illegal taxes: K. K. Newhouse, W. A. Rosow, C. O. O'neill.

No. 2—District attorney's report: B. C. Hansen, T. A. Tolletson, John Morton.

CITIZENS OF DAYTON EXPRESS GRATITUDE

John H. Patterson, Chairman of Relief Committee, Sends Letter to Mayor James A. Fathers.

Gratitude of the citizens of Dayton, Ohio, for the assistance rendered to them by the people of Janesville following the recent flood with its enormous loss of life and property is expressed by John H. Patterson, chairman of the Dayton Citizens' Relief Committee in a letter received by Mayor James A. Fathers this morning. The readers of the Gazette may be interested to learn, if they have not already done so, that Mr. Patterson is the head of the great National Cash Register factory who gave so generously of his means to alleviate the suffering of his fellow citizens. The letter is as follows:

Dayton, Ohio, April 11, 1913.
To the Honorable Mayor,
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: As chairman of the Dayton Citizens' Relief Committee, I desire to extend to you and through you to the people of Janesville, our sincere thanks and deep appreciation of the material assistance you have afforded us. Please accept this grateful recognition of your practical sympathy, not only on behalf of this committee, but in the name of every citizen of Dayton.

It is a grateful tribute to the American people when one city will come to the relief of another, sorely afflicted, with the promptness and wholeheartedness with which the city of Janesville answered the call of Dayton's distress.

Our city is passing through a dark period in her history, yet we are not dismayed; the words of cheer, encouragement and kindly sympathy we have received from our sister cities throughout the length and breadth of the land, large and small alike, have lighted the gloom that surrounded us and given us strength to enter confidently upon the work of building a bigger, better and grander Dayton.

We shall never forget your kindness to us and Janesville will ever be held in fond and grateful remembrance by every man, woman and child who calls Dayton "Home."

Very sincerely,
JOHN H. PATTERSON,
Chairman,
Dayton Citizens' Relief Committee.

Edward DuVal, a workman employed at the Janesville Machine Company's factory, appeared in municipal court this morning to answer the charge of assaulting John S. Meyers, a fellow workman, on April 12. He pleaded "not guilty" and his trial was set for two o'clock Friday afternoon. Meyers was represented by Attorney Stanley Tallman. DuVal is accused of hitting Meyers over the head with a shovel and although admitting an act of this nature, claims it was in self-defense, as Meyers was about to strike him. DuVal was not required to give bail for his appearance in court but was left in the custody of Chief Appleby.

William Pickner, a hold offender, was not able to pay a fine of $5 and costs on being convicted of a charge of intoxication and was sent to jail for seven days.

"It is all the same to me whether the fine is five or five hundred," said Pickner. "I can't pay it."

MEET DIFFICULTY IN BRIDGE WORK

Current Proves Too Strong For Coffers Dams at Bridge And Will Have To Puddle Dam the Enclosure.

Being aided by favorable weather, the work of filling the coffer dam at the new railroad bridge which the Cleary-White construction company is building, is progressing in a most rapid manner considering the swift current of the river at this point. It was found that it would be necessary to build added protection to the dams as the water would flow in faster than the two pumps could pump it out. When canvas was put around the sheeting the pressure at the bottom of the river made this plan a failure and the next step that the bridge builders will take will be to sink sheeting around the original dam and fill the space between the two with mud. This process is called puddle damming. It is expected that all three dams will have to be treated this way before the water can be pumped out.

Diver Gunderson worked yesterday on the dam on the west side besides doing some work on the canvassing of the first dam. This morning cement was being put in the second dam, six feet of it being placed in the bottom of it. The workman have built a track on the south side of the bridge and the cement is carried from the elevator in small cars and dumped in to pipes which convey it beneath the water to the bottom of the river where it is allowed to harden. The third coffer dam is to be treated in a similar manner and then the work of waterproofing them by puddle damming will be started within a short time.

SECURITY FOR COST IN MANDAMUS CASE ORDERED BY COURT

Judge Grimm Finds That Requirement Would Work No Hardship on Charles H. Sykes, Relator in Recall Action.

Charles H. Sykes, relator in the three mandamus actions brought by him as plaintiff against John P. Hammarlund, city clerk of the city of Janesville, was ordered to give security for costs to the amount of $250 in each of the three suits brought to require the city clerk to find sufficient conditions filed for the recall.

Mayor James A. Fathers and Councilmen C. K. Miltimore and R. M. Cummings. The ruling was made by Judge Grimm in the circuit court this afternoon.

Attorney John L. Fisher, who with Attorney E. H. Ryan, appeared for Mr. Sykes, stated that the security would be ready by tomorrow or Friday at the latest. The defendant will be allowed five days in which to make his return after the security has been furnished.

Attorneys O. A. Oestreich, M. O. Mount, Thomas S. Nolan and City Attorney W. H. Dougherty appeared in the court for Mr. Hammarlund. Mr. Oestreich, in arguing the petition to show cause, offered the affidavit of City Clerk Hammarlund in which certain facts and beliefs were set forth, the more important of which were to be the effect that the relator in the mandamus suits had no personal interest in the outcome of the action, and that he was not of sufficient financial standing to pay the costs should they be assessed against him. The defendant's counsel merely wished security in order that it would be known of a certainty that the costs were collectable. It was alleged in the affidavit that Sykes was being backed in the matter by other parties whose names were withheld.

Attorney Fisher submitted an affidavit from Mr. Sykes in which it appeared that Sykes was worth at least $3,600 net exempt from forced sale upon execution and that he was bringing the action in good faith as a citizen of Janesville.

Mr. Fisher also submitted his own affidavit covering substantially the same ground and alleging that the city clerk was also supported by backers, and stating that the action to show cause was merely for the purpose of delay. Mr. Fisher spoke briefly on the matter.

Judge Grimm in making his ruling said that he did so realizing that it would inflict no hardship on the relator, Charles H. Sykes, as there had been no objection made in this respect. It would simply serve to place the action in a way so that the parties might go ahead. Judge Grimm expressed a hope that the mandamus action might be disposed of before the May jury term but it was hinted that the case might be tried on issue of fact and would appear on the jury calendar. This will depend upon the return which the attorneys for the defendant will make, following the filing of the undertaking for security.

M'GOVERN'S MARKET MEASURE ATTACKED BY MANUFACTURERS

Chester D. Barnes of Kenosha, Their Representative, Opposed Ruling As to Discrimination.

Madison, Wis., April 16.—Governor McGovern's measure for a state marketing commission as a means of reducing the cost of living was subjected to a pigheaded attack for an hour yesterday afternoon by Chester D. Barnes of Kenosha, representing manufacturers.

The hearing was before the assembly committee on state affairs, and at the close a re-hearing was announced to be held a week from today. Several amendments will be offered. Assemblyman Mahon, sponsor for the bill, has several already in preparation.

Mr. Barnes announced that the bill and discrimination bill, as amended, was much more preferable to the manufacturing interests than the bill under discussion.

That section which vests the proposed commission with power to determine the reasonableness of business, acts, practices and methods of competition, was denounced as one which would force dealers out of business. He predicted vast difficulty in differentiating between fair and unfair acts by a body of men vested with such powers.

Mr. Barnes was especially pronounced in his opposition to the classification between communities based on whether or not competition is present. This ruling, he declared, would permit manufacturers or wholesalers outside of Wisconsin to "make a run" on particular lines of commodities in this state which their Wisconsin competitors could not meet.

He foresaw the possibility of putting Wisconsin industries out of business in great numbers. The latter, by the terms of the bill, are forbidden to sell at different prices in different communities.

The fact that the United States laws protect patents as a monopolistic right in the inventor gave the state no power to interfere with such rights, he declared.

A fixed standard of prices he said, was totally at variance with all rules of business management.

Why, in the field of private endeavor, should not I be permitted to sell in open competition with my business rivals, and sell to whom I please and withhold from whom I please? he asked.

That clause forbidding selling goods below cost was classed as confiscatory, it would prevent a dealer from disposing of goods out of style or otherwise unsalable at prevailing prices, and was therefore unreasonable.

Mr. Barnes ridiculed the section giving threefold damages to anyone injured by violation of the anti-trust laws. It would be a lucrative business for somebody to watch for violations, he said. He said the bill makes the commission a court, and he was especially bitter over that clause which says that if the award is not paid, the commission's findings shall be prima facie evidence in an action brought to recover it.

DINNER STORIES

A Civil-war veteran went back to the small town home of his boyhood, to attend a banquet given by the old boys. The diners were all men he had known as youngsters. He expected them to talk over old times. Instead one talked incessantly about his bad liver; another discoursed on his weak heart; a third had a lot to say about his kidney trouble, and so it went. When the veteran returned to his home he was asked how he enjoyed the banquet.

"Banquet!" he replied, showing vexation. "It wasn't a banquet—it was an organ recital."

Al Pepperdine had called upon his niece to unburden his marital woes. One of his chief grievances was that he often had to help around the house—carry water or coal or build fires.

"Cynthia, I'm just plumb wore out havin' them women folks depend on me for everything, and they don't seem to think I'm doin' anything extra. I tell you them women folks of mine are that dependent they couldn't get a meal's victuals without me to help. But they're goin' to find out how dependent they are; then they'll appreciate me."

"Why, Uncle Al, are you going away?" inquired Cynthia in surprise. "I am going to become a recluse," announced Pepperdine, portentously. "I'm goin' miles into the country and live all alone. In a cabin for six months, and Susan and them girls will see who's been doing all the work."

"But, Uncle Al," exclaimed Cynthia, "who will do your washing and such like?" "Why, I'll bring that to Susan on Saturday nights, when I come in to get my bread."

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE TO BROTHER JOSEPH

Sisters of Good Shepherd at Memphis
Send Tribute To Far Off
Hawaiian Islands.

One of the handsomest tributes to Brother Joseph Dutton's work among the far off leper colony in the Pacific ocean, in memory of his silver jubilee was sent him by the Sisters of the Good Shepherd at Memphis. It is a dainty hand painted, hand illuminated poem, which is printed below. Brother

BROTHER JOSEPH DUTTON

er Joseph sent the gift to the Sisters of Mercy of this city for inspection and the Gazette is privileged to reprint the beautiful tribute to Brother Joseph and his work.

How little do we rock the ship,
Of those that near us dwell;
And what of those beyond our ken,
What griefs their bosoms swell.

We murmur when some petty wrong,
Our daily life o'er casts;
And think not of the noble souls,
That face life's bitter blasts.

We step aside, and blanch with fear,
When pestilence is nigh;
And there are souls like Damien,
With Lepers, live and die.

Life's passed away, a Dutton stands,
Upon a shore of death;
Amidst the Leper's daily lives,
Inhales their fetid breath.

Unclean, Unclean, that ancient cry,
Heard through Gehenna's Vale,
How sad, how more than sad the tones
Of that despondent wail.

Christ Jesus heard that heartfelt cry,
"Unclean," but Thou canst heal
Decaying flesh the ulcerous sores;
O, Christ thy power reveal.

An outcast from the haunts of men,
Can Nature's beauties cheer?
Who but a Damien, Dutton brave,
Can solace, bring them there.

The tranquil Ocean laves the shore,
All beauties seem their Isle;
But vain the flowers, the birds, the breeze,
Bereft of Dutton's smile.

Have brave men ever feared the foe,
From battle's din or fear?
No, but could they live brave Dutton,
On Kalaow tread?

We say he's reached the Silver term,
Men sound his praise loud,
A column in the daily news,
A whisper in the crowd.

"A living death" they trembling say,
An Exile from his King;
Ah, surely not for gold, his aim,
Scant recompense he'll find.

Ah no, the world has no reward,
For such a life as this;
A recompense the Saviour'll give,
In realms of joy and bliss.

Thy Silver years, He'll crown brave
Dutton,
Reward He'll surely meet;
When pilloved on His Sacred Heart,
You'll hear His welcome sweet.

'Twas said to Him, a Leper he,
No semblance of man;
When at the pillar prone He lay,
Scourged by the Roman's hand.

He thinks He saw you in that hour,
Upon that lonely shore,
Comforting a stricken race,
Of Lepers sad and poor.

Dear Brother Joseph, list we pray,
Your Memphis friends unite
In wishing you, all grace and joy,
And a crown of bliss, all bright.

From the Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
Memphis, Tenn.

NO INTER-MARRIAGE LAW TO BE PASSED

Measure Recommended for Indefinite Postponement—Former Assemblyman Palmer Condemns It

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 15.—Inter-marriages between blacks and whites will not be prohibited by law if the report of the committee on public welfare of the assembly on the T. A. Stewart bill is sustained. The measure was recommended for indefinite postponement with only Assemblyman Charles Schultz and Carpenter dissenting. At the hearing the escapades of Jack Johnson, pugilist, were discussed in some detail.

Assemblyman Stewart said that he believed a law should be enacted prohibiting whites and blacks marrying. He pointed out that thirty-four states had similar laws. The only argument against the bill was made by former Assemblyman L. H. Palmer, colored, of Milwaukee.

"If this bill is enacted into law it will place a black spot on Wisconsin," said Mr. Palmer. "Such a measure condemns the race. All of this legislation is recommended because of the disgraceful conduct of one man."

Who made Jack Johnson what he was the white man. It was the white man who whined and dined him to make money off him. This bill is not a humane measure. There are twenty-five families in Milwaukee that will be disgraced if this measure passes. The bill is engendered in prejudice. It prohibits negroes marrying whites. We have committed no outrages. The bill is not aimed at the Japs, the Indians and the Chinese, but is directed at us. It is we who have helped to make this country what it is. We labored in the south and fought with the Union soldiers. And this measure would humiliate us."

Mr. Palmer read a statement to the committee endorsed by the Book of T. Washington's Men's Forum at Milwaukee which declared it would be far better from a moral and social view point to let the marriage relation be regulated by individual choice, rather than to prevent decent matrimonial unions by unconstitutional enactment.

The committee on public welfare recommended the Heding bill for indefinite postponement requiring standard-sized bottles, cans and jars. The contents of this bill are contained in another measure.

Instead of an appropriation of $50,000 for the Panama-Pacific exposition, representative Citizens of the state appeared before the joint finance committee of the legislature yesterday afternoon and asked for an appropriation of $30,000. The tenor of the arguments was that there should be a large appropriation so that the manufacturing, livestock, dairy and agricultural products of the state might be adequately represented. Among those who spoke in favor of the appropriation were Assemblymen Bove and Everett; W. G. Bruce, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association of Milwaukee; A. W. Hinkle, secretary of the Wisconsin Farmers' and Stockmen's association; and J. P. Martin, president of the Wisconsin Livestock Breeders' association. No action was taken on the bill by the committee. There seems to be a prevailing opinion that the measure will be recommended for passage providing for the larger appropriation.

The committee gave a hearing on the Bove bill for an appropriation of $200,000 annually for the extension work at the University of Wisconsin. The bill is not recommended as a legislative measure, but Dean Reber of the extension department appeared before the committee and said that if the appropriation were granted great improvements could be made in the present plans. The regular university bill calls for about $50,000 less for this department.

The committee on commerce and manufactures recommended the Birmingham bill, giving the common councils in cities of the first, second and third class power to appoint inspectors of boilers. A similar bill on the same subject, introduced by Assemblyman Zintz, was recommended for indefinite postponement. The judiciary committee heard arguments on the bill to establish a Torrens land title system by the state. John T. Kenney of Madison and E. T. Dittmar of Baraboo made the principal arguments against the measure. They claimed that it was a scheme to have the state prove up titles to land now claimed by individuals, where such land titles were in question.

The Battis bill authorizing the Wolf River Improvement company to construct and operate a system of water reservoirs on the Wolf river and its tributaries was recommended for passage by the assembly committee on state affairs. The purpose of the measure is to produce a uniform flow of water in the Wolf and lower Fox rivers. General powers of supervision is granted to the railroad commission to supervise the work. The right is reserved to the legislature to repeal or amend the legislative grant at any time or in case the company shall not by Jan. 1, 1917, have in operation reservoirs of a storage capacity of at least 2,000,000 cubic feet of water. It is also reserved to the state to have the right at any time to take over to itself and operate over all reservoirs and other works and property acquired by the company, by paying the cash capital actually paid on the capital stock, without any allowance for franchise values.

This is one of the most important grants made at this session of the legislature and before it was recommended it was carefully scrutinized by the members of the railroad commission and the officials of the attorney general's office. The bill will be on the calendar for engrossment Thursday.

The public welfare committee has recommended the Hurlbut bill for passage giving the superintendent of schools and deputies to be appointed by the industrial commission power to grant labor permits to persons under 15 years of age.

Practically every railroad protested against the bill requiring the payment of wages bi-monthly, when the bill came up for hearing before the labor committee yesterday afternoon. A. N. Ners, of Madison, representing the railroad engineer and D. M. Munger, of the trainmen's organization favored the passage of the bill. They claimed there was a general demand among railroad men for the bi-monthly payment of wages. The committee took no action on the measure.

ADD WASHINGTON

An amendment to place cotton stockings on the free list and another to reduce the proposed rate of 40 per cent and 50 per cent ad valorem were voted down. An amendment to increase the duty on cotton gloves also was lost.

When the senate resumed consideration of the bill chairman Underwood, whose physical condition was evidently much improved took charge and the work was begun. Several attempts to alter the proposed reductions of duty on collars and cuffs were defeated.

The senate foreign relations today acted favorably on the nominations of Walter H. Page to be ambassador to Great Britain and Dudley Field Malone to be third assistant secretary of state. Confirmation was expected at the executive session of the senate on Thursday.

The committee also recommended confirmation of John Bassett Moore to be consul of the state department and John E. Osborn of Wyoming as first assistant secretary of state.

Washington, April 16.—Charles R. Crane of Chicago, who is known to be foremost among those whom President Wilson has had under consideration for appointments as ambassador to Russia, was a White House caller today and the executive officers were mum about the subject of his visit. Secretary Bryan, however, said that the present ambassador, Curtis Guild had been granted a two months' leave of absence on account of his health.

CURED TERRIBLE HUMOR ON FACE

Could Not Go Out Street Without Veil, Tells What Resinol Did for Her.

Philadelphia, Dec. 6, 1912.—"In December 1908, my face became sore. I tried everything that was recommended, and my face got worse, instead of better. I spent over $100 and got no benefit. The face and nose were very red and the eruption had the appearance of small boils, which itched me terribly. I cannot tell you how terrible my face looked—all I can say is, it was dreadful and I suffered beyond description."

"I have not gone out the street any time since 1908 without a veil, until now. Just four months ago a friend, persuaded me to give Resinol a trial. I have used three cakes of Resinol Soap and less than a jar of Resinol Ointment, and my face is perfectly free from any eruption, and my skin is as clear and clean as any child's. It is about four weeks since the last eruption disappeared." (Signed) Mrs. M. T. Bateman, 4555 Viola St.

Nothing we can say of Resinol equals what others, such as Mrs. Bateman, say of it. If you are suffering from itching, burning skin troubles, pimples, blackheads, dandruff, ulcers, boils, stubborn sores, or piles, it will cost you nothing to try Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. Just send to Dept. 17-T, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., for a free sample of each. Every druggist sells Resinol.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Janesville People. Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Janesville.

Here is the testimony of one who has used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now makes her testimony even stronger.

Mrs. Joseph Gower, 302 Eastern Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "The benefit I had from Doan's Kidney Pills when I used them some years ago has been permanent. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy. I was afflicted with kidney complaint for several weeks and was feeling miserable in every way when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. and the contents of three boxes rid me of my trouble. I never fail to advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills when I hear anyone complaining of weak kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Theatre

The Free Press of April 20th, 1908, writes as follows: "The Pabst theatre was crowded to the doors last evening. It was the last performance of the present season. It was a benefit production for Conrad Bolten. That of itself was sufficient to make the evening a gala occasion. The beneficiary who staged the play and played the leading role received numerous gifts and loads of flowers. All this added to the program. But Shakespeare said, 'The play's the thing,' so the play was the one great central factor last night. It was a three-act farce, a French farce done into German, a howling, screaming, side-splitting farce that tickled the visibilities and left the audience in a convulsion of merriment. Every man drew a laugh, every woman a smile, every child a gasp. It was a business a sheet. It was all about the much abused and much abused—sometimes—mother-in-law."

Briefly, a man was divorced because of the unbearable mother of his wife. He afterwards remarried, choosing a girl whose mother was dead, whose father was a widower; therefore, he would be apparently free from another "Schwiegmamma." The gay father of the second wife, however, freed from the care of the daughter, married, whom do you suppose? His son-in-law's first wife, and came with her and her mother to live with his son-in-law. The perplexing situation, and other incidents are more readily imagined than describable.

The three acts were loaded with fun and blason and Mars, the joint authors (German by Neumann) certainly turned the trick.

This famous German Dramatic company will appear at the Myers theatre Sunday evening, April 20.

THE BOHEMIAN GIRL

According to a newspaper critic, it would appear that "The Bohemian Girl" as it is being offered by the Aborn Opera Company contains elements some one or more of which must be appeal to every theatregoer. Among the features mentioned are Balfe's well known melodious ballads sung by notable singers, an unusually rich scenic outfit, a scene in which a score of horses are employed, that supplies all the thrills of a melodrama, a number of circus acts of exceptional merit, and a ballet. It would appear that "The Bohemian Girl" as it will be presented at the Myers Theatre, on Friday, April 25, is decidedly different from the style in which it was done for so many years.

LAKOTA MINSTRELS.
On Friday evening the Lakota club will give a genuine home talent minstrel show. This is the only amateur event of the season and will be given in the Myers theatre.

The club has among its members several of the favorites of former minstrel shows—Will Posenichen, Walter Carle, and Howard Clithero—who make plenty of fun. Some of the favorite local soloists who will take part are Will Miller, Ed Leary, Stewart Richards, and Robert Clithero. A feature of the show will be a male chorus of the entire membership of fifty. The numbers are all humorous and will be given by those well fitted for the parts. A new "take-off" on a local situation has just been added and is so clever that it is certain to cause great merriment.

Following the custom of the professional minstrel shows the club will have a parade Friday noon. This will be headed by the Bowyer City band.

Seats are being rapidly taken and the first day almost the whole lower floor had been sold out.

The Most Useful Set

of Books on Earth

The price of the large Cyclopaedia Sets is usually so high, from $50 to $100, that they are invariably sold on the installment plan. The publisher of Everybody's Cyclopaedia took advantage of these facts, and from a revision of all these various large and good cyclopedias they have compiled all that is good, all that is necessary, and have merely eliminated the condensed that, which would be of interest to a specialist or technical student.

The Gazette's price for this useful set of books is even a greater surprise than was the Dictionary Offer.

Leading newspapers placed the largest book order ever given to a publisher, and gave the readers of The Gazette, with one coupon, the benefit of the very low price at which we purchased these 5 volume sets.

conditions still prevail along the North Atlantic coast. The area of low barometer in the Northwest is now in the Saskatchewan valley and is apparently about to move eastward after remaining nearly stationary for several days. It will pass north of the lake region, and will probably be attended in this vicinity by fair or partly cloudy weather, and brisk southerly winds. A secondary center of low pressure has formed on the southern Plains, but is as yet attended by no cloudiness or precipitation. The barometer is high on the North Pacific coast, and in the Plateau region. The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE NEED TO BE NEEDED.

THE NEED to be needed is one of the most deeply rooted of human necessities.

Even the little child feels it; it grows powerful with maturity; and, contrary to the idea of a great many people, it does not disappear in old age.

A young married friend of mine, who is a very conscientious and loving daughter, as well as a model wife, has recently taken her widowed mother into her home. "I can't understand why mother isn't happier," she said to me the other day. "She has the nicest room in the house, my husband is very kind to her, she has more money to spend on herself than she ever had in her life, and I don't let her lift her hand to do anything, no matter how hard I have to work myself. I can't understand it."

Of course she couldn't understand it, for the very condition which is undoubtedly the cause of all the trouble, she held up as one of the reasons her mother should be happy—"And I don't let her lift her hand to do anything, no matter how hard I have to work myself."

I have been to that home, and I have seen the little mother start to wipe the dishes or try to be of service in some way, and heard her daughter say, with well-meant but cruel kindness, "Now, mother, you mustn't do that. I wish you'd go into the other room and sit down." And I have seen the little mother go meekly away with a disappointed look on her sweet, old face.

It's nice to go into the other room and sit down sometimes, but nobody likes to do it all the time, not even old folks.

They want to be useful; they want to be of service; they want to be needed; and when you take that away from them, you take away one of their strongest holds on life.

The need to be needed is one of the most deeply rooted of human necessities. I thoroughly believe that it is the lack of this element of happiness that causes much of the misery among our poor rich folks. Their ridiculous monkey parties, their terrible divorce rate, their growing interest in decadent religions, are all expressions of the unrest that comes from not being useful.

So don't put the old folks on the shelf. If the shelf were made of solid gold they would not be happy there. If you really want to make them happy, you will give them the comfort of feeling they are of use in the world just as freely as you give them material comforts. And if, by reason of their feebleness, it ever becomes necessary for you to pretend, I'm sure the Keeper of the Books won't put down any black marks against you.

Boiler and sweeten when done. Remember, fruit-like green vegetables are composed largely of water. While they are highly useful in their place with other foods, the actual tissue building elements must be supplied by other food bulks.

For real food values in fruits we look for sugars and starches, such as apples, pears, cherries, currants, oranges, peaches, persimmons, grapes, pineapples and plums. These do not build up bodily tissue, but they do supply heat and energy.

There have been frequent tests of fasting for two weeks and no inconvenience felt if fruit juices were freely used. It can readily be seen that a very fair supply of food was received except protein, but it would on no account be wise for "steady diet."

Best Breakfast Fruits.

The orange is one of the best and most distinctly health-giving breakfast fruits. Orange juice adds in reducing putrefactive food in the intestines of nearly all persons. Occasionally there are some who cannot take it until after breakfast or must dilute it with lemon juice and water.

Grapes should always be eaten freely when obtainable; apples preferably before retiring and two are about twice as good as one. The apple habit works wonders with persons who are naturally listless and tired. Lemons are better combined with other fruits, as lemons are of the acid in French dressing for salads. Never be without lemon in the house.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

TRouble has a trick of coming. But first, viewed approaching when you've seen it. At its worst. Once surmounted, straight it waxes. Ever small. And it tapers till there's nothing left at all.

KEEPING DOWN KITCHEN EXPENSES.

If you will notice, the meat bills of the cook who buys steaks or quickly cooked meats are much higher than those of the woman who spends more time planning her meals and buying cheaper cuts of meat, and her family at the same time are better fed.

When we buy cold-boiled ham at thirty-five or forty cents a pound, instead of preparing it ourselves at twenty-two cents, or buying ten cents worth of soup cubes when a ten-cent soup bone would have made a much fuller meal, as to food value, and with little expense as to heat, if a fireless cooker is used; when we insist upon steaks at twenty-five and twenty-eight cents, when twelve and fifteen cents will buy meat which, if well cooked, will furnish a good meal.

A small piece of meat added to vegetables will give flavor to them and make a palatable meal. It takes thought and planning to keep down the expenses and still not noticeably stint the family. For most women who have the right feeling toward housekeeping there is a keen enjoyment in the battling against such odds. It is a game that takes as much greater skill than that shown at the bridge table, and one which we hope to see the younger generation enter with a fair knowledge of the game.

Leaf lard, if bought when the price is down to eleven cents, and the lard tried out at home, will lessen the cost of lard from two to four cents on the pound.

There are certain seasons in the year, usually early in the year, when sugar may be bought in hundred-pound bags at a saving of one or two cents to the pound, when buying by the dollar's worth, as most people do. Sugar is a staple that cannot spoil if kept in a clean, dry place, and it is economy to buy it in large lots.

Canned vegetables for winter may be bought at quite a reduction if a dozen cans are ordered, and much of the staple food can be bought thus, and save the middle man's profit.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A friend married last week. No wedding. I received a card announcing that the marriage has taken place. (1) When shall I reply and what shall I say? (2) Is a gift appropriate? I have never met the young man she married. She is a "stickler" on ceremony. (3) Shall I address my letter to Mr. and Mrs. or to my lady friend?

MISS ANXIOUS READER. (1) If there is an "At Home" date on the wedding announcement, you may call upon the bride after that date. Leave your cards for herself and husband. If there is no "At Home" date, call when they return from the honeymoon trip. (2) No. (3) If you write at all, address your letter to the bride and wish her much happiness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been undecided what to do. I have been married ten years. My husband is two years younger than I, and is also very good looking. He is good to me in a way. I get all the makes, but he "stories" to me about certain things, and I have lost all confidence in him. I just think I can't stand it much longer. He is very much stuck on himself. I have worried until I am sick. It puzzles me whether to leave him or not. I have asked him more than once if he was done with me, but he always tells me no, and if he didn't love me he wouldn't be with me at all.

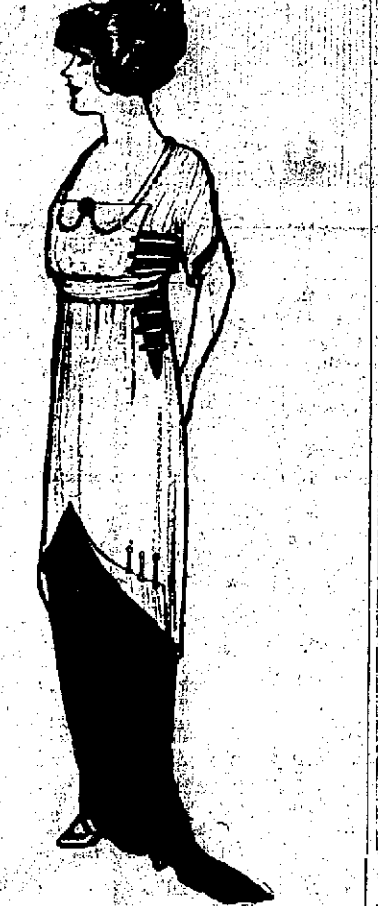

He is a terrible flirt; I have seen him and it hurts me very much. He isn't mean—always kind to me, and makes $18 to $20 a week and gives it all to me.

What would you do? Would you try to forget and begin all over? (But I had done this so many times.) I thought I had better put up with that, as I might get someone else who might treat me worse.

We haven't any children and he is very fond of them. Do you think our ages have anything to do with our not getting along?

I love him dearly and he knows it, and he seems to love me, but he doesn't show it. He was twenty-

HANDSOME GOWN FOR WEAR IN EVENING

This handsome gown will be appropriate for formal evening wear. It is of dull white crepe material and black velvet. The inner V sections on each side are of the velvet, as is the lower part of the skirt, which is cut with a slight train. Small turnovers of black velvet also finish the short sleeves.

The bodice is trimmed with strings of round jet beads, and jet buttons catch the hands of white silk which are strapped across the V-shaped side sections. Similar strings and buttons ornament the sleeves and hold the revers at the front of the tunic.

Oysters as Food.

Oysters come nearer in composition to cow's milk than do most other meats, as all the four kinds of nutrients needed are present in good degree. Oysters have a larger excess of the flesh-building substance relative to the other constituents than milk, so we "balance the ration" by addition of starchy food and fats when eating oysters, thus securing a good meal at a cost that compares favorably with that when other meats are chosen.—Prof. Julius Nelson of Rutgers College, in Leslie's.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Honey Recipes.

Money and Almond Cake—Put in saucepan over fire one-half pound honey, two tablespoons butter; when butter is melted and at boiling point turn into a basin to cool. When cold stir in one-half pound flour, two ounces blanched and chopped almonds, grated rind of one-half lemon; one scant-teaspoon cloves.

Dissolve one teaspoon soda in a little water and stir into the mixture at the last.

Cover with a cloth and stand in a cool place. In the morning lay the paste on board, sprinkle with flour, roll out one-half inch thick, cut into 1 1/2-inch squares, put a split almond in each corner, a piece of candied citron in center of each cake, lay on a buttered paper (which has been placed on a baking tin), cover with white paper, bake in moderate oven. When cold, keep in a tin.

Honey Lemonade—Make rich lemonade in the usual way, but sweeten with honey in place of sugar. Agreeable and stimulating.

Honey Cookies—Beat four ounces butter with a wooden spoon, add one-half pound sugar, one quart honey, juice of two lemons; mix, stir in sifted flour enough to roll out. Cut in round cakes, lay in buttered pan, bake in moderate oven.

This is an excellent recipe for buns, cinnamon rolls, and doughnuts—One cup mashed potatoes (left over from dinner can be used), one cup sugar, three-fourths cup butter, one cup yeast. Break two eggs into cup and fill with sweet milk. Mix, potatoes, butter and sugar thoroughly, then add milk and eggs well beaten, and last the yeast. Work in well enough flour to make a soft dough. Mix in the evening and in the morning make into buns. Let rise and bake.

For cinnamon rolls, roll the dough out, spread with a mixture of sugar, butter and cinnamon, roll up and cut off to form the rolls. Be sure and pinch the end shut each time before cutting.

For doughnuts, roll out three-fourths of an inch thick, cut and let raise until light. Fry in hot lard.

Mock Lemon Pie—To one cup sour apple sauce add one pint water, add half cup sugar, bring to a boil and thicken with one heaping teaspoon cornstarch dissolved in water. Remove from fire and add beaten yolks of two eggs and one tablespoon lemon extract. Fill rich pie crust and make a meringue of the whites of eggs.

I have read of military commanders allowing long marching soldiers to raid fruit trees whenever a halt was made. It revives tired muscles a great deal better than most people know, and these sugars do not require as much making over in the intestinal tract, so they may be used more rapidly for the repair of muscular fatigue.

For the relief of such muscular fatigue we would recommend grapes, sweet cherries, apples, gooseberries, raspberries and strawberries. Naturally dried fruits contain a great quantity of sugar, as prunes, 32 per cent; raisins, 61 per cent; figs, 48 per cent; dates, 66 per cent.

Why Fruit is a Laxative. Aside from the sugar value of fruits, there is one other which should not be overlooked and that is their laxative effect, not purgatives, but mildly, gently and naturally laxative. Fruit should therefore be liberally supplied in all necessary laxative diets.

While green vegetables act in a similar way, they should not be relied on wholly for this, but a judicious mixture of both is more effective.

Of the fresh fruits there is a wide range and of the dried fruits figs are the best and prunes, peaches, apricots, pears and apples in the order named appear to be the most useful. They should always be washed well in lukewarm water and soaked in cold water over night, then cooked in the water in which they were soaked in a double boiler or on the back part of the stove where they do not even simmer for two or three hours or more. Sugar should never be added.

The rhubarb, while, botanically speaking, it does not belong to the fruit family, will serve excellently right now in the spring of the year all the usual purposes of fruit in the menu. Never add water to rhubarb, but cook in its own juice in a double

J. Ham will be going with whiskers a-flowing to stand in the senate, observed to all eyes; his speeches will thunder the frosted dome under the logic of one who is gifted and wise. But none will be noting the sages he's quoting; the facts he advances, the theories he'll spin; for all will be gazing upon that amazing assortment of spinach that hangs from his J. HAM chin. His whiskers are LEWIS' flossy, and gleaming and glossy, like tropical verdure, luxuriant, rank; they're rippling and waving, they're strangers to shaving, they're red as the nose of a teetotal crank. He's fine at debating, he's good at orating—his talents are wasted, though slicker than grease; no odds what he'll utter, the senate will mutter: "The man with the whiskers is speaking a piece!" In masterly fashion, all throbbing with passion, he'll argue some question important and deep; congressional kinglets will look at his ringlets and yearn for a barber and then go to sleep. He'll deal in the splendor of pathos so tender 'twould melt a stone image, or e'en suffragette; the senate, awaking, will see his beard shaking, and mutter: "Old Whiskers is whiskering yet!" And thus a man gifted, whose soul is uplifted with hopes that he'll see a new era begin, is doomed to be laughed at and jollied and chaffed at, because of the flaccid affliction of his chin.

RAISE AGE LIMIT IN THE CORN CONTEST

TWENTY INSTEAD OF SIXTEEN YEARS, SET AS THE REQUIREMENT FOR ENTRANCE.

MUCH INTEREST SHOWN

Third Article by Noyes R. Raessler on Preparation for the Summer's Crop.

After due consideration of several suggestions made relative to raising the age limit for contestants in the Gazette Corn-Growing Contest, it has been decided to make twenty, instead of sixteen years, one of the requirements for entrance. This announcement will doubtless attract many more contestants than hitherto and as the object of the contest is to interest the boys of Rock county in farm work, it will accomplish the desired results. Much interest is being displayed in the contest throughout the state and many inquiries have been received from a distance asking for particulars. The plan to make Rock county the banner corn producing county of Wisconsin, means much favorable advertising for this section of the state. If one man can raise seventy to a hundred bushels of fine corn per acre, others can do likewise and this means much to the average farm owner.

The third of Noyes R. Raessler's articles on preparation of the ground for coming crop is printed below. The importance of Pure Bred Corn to Wisconsin.

(By Noyes R. Raessler.)
Wisconsin is more dependent upon her corn crop today than any other agricultural crop grown within the limits of the state.

While Wisconsin does not rank as one of the greatest corn producing states growing bushels of millions annually, yet she is dependent upon this crop and carefully cares for every acre produced. Wisconsin is known as the Great Dairy state and has approximately one-sixth of all the creameries and

NOYES R. RAESSLER

Several thousand boys of Wisconsin are now growing and selling pure bred seed corn. The call for seed comes from all over the world, Russia, China, Japan and all of the corn growing states of America send in orders for seed.

The little German province in South Africa sent in an order for forty-five bushels of Silver King in July of 1911 which was filled and sent to that far away country to be planted Nov. 1, 1912. They feel sure they will succeed with this variety as it was tried in 1910 and maintained all its good qualities which had been obtained through a course of twelve years of breeding. More Wisconsin boys took part in the corn growing contests last year than in all the southern and corn belt states put together. Our county fair put $17,000 into awards and the college of agriculture furnished the seed for 22,000 young people who entered the contests. Many of these have become interested in growing seed corn and are receiving quite a nice income from this source. A boy of 14 sold $200 worth of seed corn to one man and I know of several hundred who will sell seed this year.

Many of the older boys in the experimental association, who make a business of growing farm seeds, sell several thousand dollars worth of seed corn and other seeds annually and are thus enabled to surround themselves with all the comforts of life and make the farm home the most attractive place on earth.

In a test carried on by 1500 members of the Wisconsin Experiment Association, extending through a period of five years Silver King (Wisconsin No. 7) gave an average yield of sixty-two bushels per acre being 12 1/2 bushels per acre better than the best varieties compared against it. For this reason the Gazette has shown preference for No. 7 in the acre yield contest for Rock county. This variety was bred not only for high yield of ear corn, but for leafiness of stalk, and abundance of forage as well. It is the most popular corn grown in the state, and has given a yield above 100 bushels of shelled corn per acre in many instances, and where used for silage purposes, from 16 to 20 tons of green forage per acre.

Another variety which has become a close rival to the Silver King in popularity is the Golden Glow or Wisconsin No. 12. This is an earlier variety and I think it can be truthfully said that there is no farm in Rock county that will not mature Golden Glow if planted at the right season.

Since the breeding of these varieties of corn adapted for various conditions of our state great interest has been manifested by the majority of our farmers, and the corn acreage of Wisconsin will rapidly increase from now on.

In yield of corn per acre, Wisconsin ranks well and often surpasses the yield of the corn belt states. This has been brought about largely by the introduction of the two high yielding varieties and special information regarding the curing, testing, planting and general corn culture.

No one factor has done more to keep the boy upon the farm than the dissemination of pure bred Wisconsin varieties of corn by conducting corn contests such as the Gazette is introducing into the Rock county this year.

The revenue derived from the sale of seed corn soon runs up into money. The boy can sell the good seed corn he can produce at $3.00 per bushel.

TUBERCULOSIS CAMP BILL RECOMMENDED

Assembly Committee on Public Welfare Gives Favorable Report on Holmes Measure.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 14.—The establishment of tuberculosis camps for the treatment of convalescent and incipient sufferers of the white plague is favored by the assembly committee on public welfare. Following a long discussion of the plan the committee recommended the Holmes bill for passage in the assembly today. The bill asks for an appropriation of $10,000 for the building of shacks and the establishment of a tuberculosis camp in the northern part of the state for a reserve. The management and direction of the camp shall be under the direction of the superintendent of the state sanitarium at Wales, the state forester and the executive secretary of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association.

When the bill came up for hearing Assemblyman Holmes, Dr. J. W. Coon of Wales, Dr. H. H. Dearholt of Milwaukee, A. C. Mack and C. C. Muir, two patients of the Wales sanitarium, appeared in favor of the measure. Dr. Coon said that fully 25 percent of the people who suffered a relapse from consumption, were those who had left the institution too soon and if there was some places as provided in the bill, these people would be able to earn enough to support themselves, while still under a physician's care.

Dr. Dearholt explained the long delay in the bill at the state sanitarium and said that sometimes patients are crowded out too soon. He favored the plan. Assemblyman Holmes explained that there was sufficient work to be done on the forestry reserve to employ the patients, so that nearly all would be able to earn $3.50 a week, which is a sufficient amount to pay their board.

Mr. Muir, the patient at Wales, said such an institution should be established as it would place patients something to do. Two years ago Muir was awarded a Carnegie medal for the saving of five lives in the up-setting of a boat in the river near Grand Rapids. A somewhat similar plan of tuberculosis treatment has been tried for twelve years in Pennsylvania with the result that over 75 percent of those who came to the camp afflicted with tuberculosis, were discharged either cured or with the disease arrested. H. H. Jacob of Milwaukee said this plan properly worked out promised results with uncalculable value to the community.

Two years ago Muir was awarded a Carnegie medal for the saving of five lives in the up-setting of a boat in the river near Grand Rapids. A somewhat similar plan of tuberculosis treatment has been tried for twelve years in Pennsylvania with the result that over 75 percent of those who came to the camp afflicted with tuberculosis, were discharged either cured or with the disease arrested. Carlisle made no remark, and Dunwoody went on.

"She had political intrigues back of her just as this woman here has, for all I know. Here is that same situation, twice in one lifetime! It's ominous for somebody. There is trouble in the air for some or all of us. But I say I offer you fair play, even, man to man. I ask no questions. She is the most beautiful woman I have ever seen. I have looked her in the face. I shall never see such another face again. Man, I'm mad over her. And you've just said you'd loose your hold on her, whatever it is, for her sake. Once my hold was on her she never should get away again."

"What do you propose?" asked the other boorishly.

"I propose only to offer you that same game over again," replied Dunwoody. "Man, what an uncanny thing this is! But remember one thing—no matter what comes, I shall never mention our meeting here. I will play you two out of three to see who takes her." His voice was low, tense, savage.

The younger man sat back in his chair. One knowing his tempestuous nature might have expected anger, consternation, resentment, to remain on his face. On the contrary, a sudden light seemed to come into his countenance. Suddenly he stifled a smile! He passed a hand across his brow as though to assure himself. It was not so much confidence or resolution as half deliberation which shone in his eyes as he cast a glance upon the heap of money on the opposite side of the table. Yet no sordid thought, no avarice, was in his gaze. What passed across his countenance little by little was relief, relaxation from a strain, a solution of some doubtful problem. At one stroke he might secure for himself riddance of the company of an embarrassing companion who already had served notice of her intention to desert him and might also keep silent this man whom she had asked for aid. As for him, she would take his measure quickly enough if he presumed in any way. The greatest misfortune possible to his perplexed soul was that the cards should not be against him.

"Senator, Dunwoody," said he at length, "you and I are from different parts of the country—from two different countries, you might say. You believe in slavery and the extension of it. I believe in just the reverse. I would sacrifice my professional future, if need were, in that belief." The other nodded, but his eyes did not waver.

"Very good! Now, I want to say to you this much: The young lady who has been with me is dangerous. She is an abolitionist of the strictest sect. She is very likely a European revolutionist, among other things. She is dangerous as such. I think I can say this much and break no pledge of confidence. We know she has appealed to you for aid. My own errand, if you please, is near to its close. It has been—"

"Cut the cards, man!" cried the Missourian. "It was lucky that he interrupted. He was just in time to prevent the other from making the mistake of saying what was the truth—that he was in any case about to leave the young lady to her own devices and by her own request."

"It would be ruin to me if this were known, Senator Dunwoody, and of that you are perfectly aware."

"I know that as well as you, but there can be honor even in politics, war or love. I have given you my word. Deal!"

His insistence, his confidence, almost caused the older man to laugh. "No, my friend," said he to himself, "you shall not lose!" But what he said aloud was, "You must not be excited, Dunwoody. You may need all your nerve. I thought you cooler in times of stress. I hope you like the cards I have given you."

"Give me four more," cried the Missourian.

"Quite right, sir, you shall have them. But how you tremble! You act as though there were 400 acres of niggers at stake, as Mr. Jones would say!"

"Go on! You don't know what there is at stake."

"So, now. You have your four cards. I take but three."

They looked now each into his renewed hand of five cards. Dunwoody swept a stack of money toward the center of the table. "A thousand dollars against one look from her eye!"

"My dear sir," rejoined the other calmly, "you are raised to the extent of two glances—one from each eye."

"A thousand more to hear the sound of her step—another thousand for one smile!"

Carlisle's voice trembled, but he forced himself under control. "My dear sir, you shall have all you wish! But now, suppose that the betting has gone far enough? What cards have you? For myself, I discover that I have drawn four kings."

Dunwoody answered gloomily: "You gave me three tens and a pair of fives, with what I held. You have won the first round."

He dashed a hand and cleared the square of matted hair from his forehead, which now was beaded. Red, florid, full blooded, barked in his eagerness, he looked as savage as some denizen of the ancient forest in pursuit as reckless as ill suited with his fortune.

"My deal," said he at length in a voice half a growl. "And later, 'How many?'"

"I shall, if you please, require but one card," was the quiet answer. Dunwoody himself required two.

"It is perhaps needless for us to waste time since I cannot divide my stakes," smiled the younger gentleman again, with a half growl. Dunwoody threw down his cards, face upward. His teeth were clenched, all his muscles set, all his attitude strained, tense.

"You have won, my dear senator. I failed to improve my four cards, which it is true, were of one color, but which I regret to say still remain of the one color and of no better company."

"It is even!" exclaimed Dunwoody.

"Come!"

The cards went around once more, and once more the officer asked for a single card. Once again he lost.

Dunwoody drew back with a deep sigh. "Look," he said: "of my three cards two were what I wanted—aces, aces, man—four of them! By every token I have won. It's fate."

"Ah, how fortune has run against me today! And so here it is! I write her name for you once more—this time her real name, so far as any in America know it—thus, Josephine, countess St. Auban, of France, of Hungary, of America, abolitionist, visionary, firebrand. There then, though I think you will find the matter of taking possession somewhat difficult to compass, so far as I am concerned, she is, with all my heart, yours to have and to hold if you can. My duty to her is over. Yours begins, I hope."

"But after this what will be your plans?" asked Dunwoody.

"I purpose leaving the boat at the first suitable stop, not farther down than Louisville, at least. Perhaps Cincinnati would be yet better. By the fortunes of war you will, therefore, stand in my stead. I've changed my mind suddenly. I told the young lady that we would continue on together, even beyond Cairo. But now—well, to the victor, as Mr. Marcy has said, belong the spoils."

The other made no answer. He only stood to his full height and stretched out his great arms. He seemed a figure come down unchanged from some savage day.

Alone in her stateroom all these hours, Josephine St. Auban had abundant time to reflect upon the singular nature of her situation. At first, and very naturally, she was disposed to seek the protection of the boat's officers, but a second thought convinced her of the unwisdom of that course. As to this stranger, this stalwart man of the west, she had appealed to him, and he had made no sign. She had no friend, no counselor. A feeling of inefficiency, of smallness and helplessness swept over her. She was prisoner to her own good fame. She dared not declare herself. She dared not cry out for help. None would believe her story.

It was while still in this frame of mind that on the day following there came to her a messenger bearing the card of Warrville Dunwoody. She gazed at it for some moments undecided, debating. Then she set out to meet the sender of the card.

There was no occupant of the saloon, excepting one, who rose as she entered, hesitating. On the instant a sudden change swept over Dunwoody's face. Was it at first assuredness it had borne? "I'm glad that you have this honored me," he said simply. "Carlisle left the boat last night."

"Left the boat—he is gone? Why, he sent me no word, and I thought—at least he said—"

"He has, madam, like Carlisle, evaded, broken forth, absconded. But as to leaving word for you he was not quite so heartless as all that. I have a message for you."

With a word craving permission she opened the message. It was brief.

"My Dear Countess—You will be glad to know that so far as your late jailer is concerned your captivity is at an end. I am leaving the boat at the next stop, and since that falls in the nighttime I will not disturb you. Senator Dunwoody has kindly consented to act as your guard in my stead, and from your message to him I judge that in any case you would prefer his care to mine."

My dear countess, they are not merely idle words when I say to you that you have won my respect and admiration. Be on your guard and allow me to advise you in the interest of yourself and others to remain silent. Your obliged and dutiful servant,

No reasons were urged, no apologies offered. Obviously the signature was in such circumstances better omitted. The effect of this note, strange to say, was to fill its recipient not with satisfaction, not even with surprise, but with sudden horror. She felt abandoned, forsaken, not pausing to reflect that now she had only what she had demanded of her late companion—guardian she now hastily called him and not jailer.

As to Dunwoody himself, ruthless and arrogant as was his nature, he bore no trace of imperiousness now. The stent lips and high color of the face before him he did not interpret to mean terror, but contempt. In the fortunes of chance he had won her. He had won—what? Nothing, as he knew very well, beyond the opportunity to fight further for her, and under a far harder handicap, a handicap which he had foolishly imposed on himself. This woman, seen face to face—yes, she was beautiful, desirable, covetable. But she was not the sort of woman he had supposed her. It was Carlisle, after all, who had won in the game!

CHAPTER IV.

The New Master.

THEY gazed at each other, measured, took ground, gauging each the adversary opposite.

"Do not go!" he almost commanded. She was halfway to the door. "Why not, sir?" She wheeled on him fiercely.

"Because—at least, you would not be so cruel!"

"I thank you, but I am leaving the boat at the first opportunity. It is impossible for us to continue an acquaintance formed thus irregularly."

"On the contrary, my dear!" The ring in his voice terrified her, but his terms angered her yet more.

"I do not in the least understand you, sir. I am accustomed to do quite as I like. And you may address me as the Countess St. Auban."

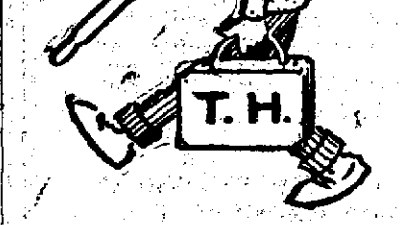

"Why should we talk of this?" he retorted. "Why talk to me of countesses? To me you are something better as you stand—the most beautiful girl, the most splendid human being I ever saw in my life. The relations under which you have been traveling with this other gentleman were not quite clear to me, but such as they were!"

"Do you lack courage, sir, to say that he has quitclaimed me to you? Am I still a prisoner? Are you to be my new jailer? By what right then?"

Dunwoody had not gathered all the story of this woman and her earlier guardian any more than she herself could guess what had been Carlisle's motive or plan in leaving her to her own devices. That she was the victim simply of a daring kidnapping could not have occurred to him. What then did she mean by talking of prisoners?

"After all, you were not that amenable which you yourself claimed to be."

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

PAINTING.

By Howard L. Rann.

PAINTING is an arduous adjunct to spring housecleaning which is reserved as a neat surprise for the husband, who never knows it is coming until he sits down on the front steps and wipes up a few square yards of fresh paint with a new spring suit.

It is a peculiar fact that a woman is never so happy as when she has to pick her way from room to room on a three-inch board and eat on the back porch.

This is because she can see just how things will look when the agony is over, while he husband can't see anything but the bills. It is a thrilling moment in a man's life when he comes home and runs into a $200 job of painting which he had contemplated putting into an automobile, but this is one of the penalties of married life.

The painter is a humble artist who general aims to begin on Monday morning by congesting the reception hall with stepladders and paint buckets, thus driving everybody in the back way. About the time he fixes the hull so that nobody can get in or out without shattering the broad jump record, he is called out to fresco some barber shop, leaving a can of varnish at a point where it can be easily run into with the vacuum cleaner and turned upside down. By the time he gets back however, the varnish will have dried so thoroughly that it won't take over two days' work with a blow pipe to get it off the piano.

When about to have some interior decorating done, it is a mistake to engage a painter who has just graduated from the red barn and corn crib school of cubist art. Such a painter always wants to erect a flock of lavender sea gulls above the plate rail in the dining room or install several bow-legged Cupids in the library. If thwarted in his plans, he will probably dilute his paint with gasoline and spray it on with a broom.

Painting should always be done when the man of the house is at some summer resort, trying to produce sweet harmony between his digestion and his food. Otherwise, it will introduce discord and a chocolate-hued grouch into the home.

About the time he fixes the hull so that nobody can get in or out without shattering the broad jump record, he is called out to fresco some barber shop, leaving a can of varnish at a point where it can be easily run into with the vacuum cleaner and turned upside down. By the time he gets back however, the varnish will have dried so thoroughly that it won't take over two days' work with a blow pipe to get it off the piano.

When about to have some interior decorating done, it is a mistake to engage a painter who has just graduated from the red barn and corn crib school of cubist art. Such a painter always wants to erect a flock of lavender sea gulls above the plate rail in the dining room or install several bow-legged Cupids in the library. If thwarted in his plans, he will probably dilute his paint with gasoline and spray it on with a broom.

Painting should always be done when the man of the house is at some summer resort, trying to produce sweet harmony between his digestion and his food. Otherwise, it will introduce discord and a chocolate-hued grouch into the home.

Benefited Many Who Had Tuberculosis

Those who suffer from Consumption are generally troubled with night sweats, fever, loss of strength and little or no appetite. Fresh air, good food, and the proper care of the body are essential to a recovery, but in many cases something else is needed. Eckman's Alternative is a medicine which has been most successful in stopping night sweats, reducing fever and promoting appetite, and many who have used it declare it saved their lives. Investigate what it did in this case.

"Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest. I was losing my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician pronounced my case Consumption. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Polyclinic Hospital. They also pronounced the disease Consumption, which was proven later by an examination of sputum, as Tuberculosis Bacilli were found. I was ordered to take a Consumptive Hospital. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I had marked relief, night sweats ceased, pain in the breast relieved, cough became loose and easy, fever left me and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now and have been completely cured for ten years. I strongly recommend it."
